

BACK TOGETHER AGAIN!

It has been three years since I hosted my annual Leading Ladies women's leadership conference, and I couldn't be happier to make a come back with GIVERS GAIN.

Great givers of all time have taught us the value of all that we truly possess, and that in giving it away we gain as much as the receiver, if not more. Giving something of ourselves does not deplete us, it completes us. Our giving helps others who need what we have to give, but more importantly our giving helps us to gain more of what makes us truly valuable.

The value of which I speak is the value that is found on the inside of each of us and cannot be measured, for it is immeasurable.

We have all obtained valuable life experiences, so the longer we live the more experience we have obtained. The more we use our talents the better our talents become. We all have something to give to our world, and in giving, we gain. Thus, Givers Gain.

This year's Leading Ladies Convention (our first since my heart problems in 2005) is all about you and your gifts to the world. I hope to challenge us to enjoy the giving process as much as we enjoy the gaining process, and understand that you cannot have one without the other.

Yesterday's leaders told people what to do and how to do it, but today's leaders ask people what they do and how they do it. I was one of yesterday's leaders, but now I seek to model myself after today's leaders and I invite you to join me as I give you what has been given to me.

VERY IMPORTANT: You are to come with something tangible to give to everyone in attendance. You can buy things in gross from Oriental Trading Co. or party stores. Be creative. This year's conference, you are the teacher, the conference speaker, and what you bring for all of us will be your "lesson," so start thinking about it now, and we will let you know the number of those attending. Let your giving be something that represents who you are and what you bring to the world. Come prepared to give. Come prepared to gain.

GIVERS GAIN LEADING LADIES CONFERENCE MARCH 6-7, 2009

About Us

Stephanie Wolfe Ministries provides resources and conferences for Christian women in all levels of leadership and personal development.

Leading Ladies is our national women's conference held yearly in March and is hosted this year by Epic Faith in Duluth, Georgia.

OPEN INVITATION:

Leading Ladies is designed to celebrate women who graduate from the Mentoring Women course written by Stephanie and originally published through John Maxwell/The Injoy Group, but is open to all women everywhere. We hope to give women all over the country an opportunity to come together to encourage, exhort, instruct, inspire and stir one another to grow as Christian women, so invite every woman you know.

SPECIAL INVITATIONS:

All mentors and/or pastors' wives will be invited to introduce themselves and their Leading Ladies. They are also invited to attend a very special meeting at Stephanie's home on Saturday evening.

All pastors' wives are invited to attend Stephanie's workshop devoted entirely to ministry wives. Discussion will be based on her new book, "Ahhh, the Ministry." Buy it now. Read it before the conference and bring your comments and questions with you!

Mentoring Women* is now 50% off — until the conference. Cost: $75.00
